Re: MB Docket No. 10-56

Dear Chairman Genachowski:

As presidents of the San Francisco and Sacramento chapters of the Asian American Journalists Association (AAJA), we would like to affirm Comcast's long-standing commitment to our organization, which is committed to diversity in media.

Founded in 1981, the Asian American Journalists Association (AAJA) is a non-profit professional and educational organization. With more than 200 members in San Francisco and 50 members in Sacramento, our two chapters provide workshops for journalism students and professionals; community access workshops to educate community organizations about media; scholarships to students and grants to working professionals for leadership development; and many other networking opportunities.

Comcast has partnered with us for the past four years to help fund our scholarship programs as well as support our events, such as East West Eats in San Francisco and the Photo Showcase and Silent Auction in Sacramento. Comcast has also hosted workshops for both our organizations and has promoted our events on its Newsmakers program. Comcast has been our premier supporter throughout the years at our events featuring prominent leading journalists, community leaders and elected officials.

Comcast has also been a strong advocate in our efforts to assist young Asian American high school and college students pursuing journalism careers and to encourage fair, sensitive and accurate news coverage of Asian American issues. We look forward to our continued work with Comcast in support of Asian American causes. We ask that you consider Comcast's track record of diversity and its commitment to local journalism as you review this proposed merger with NBC Universal.

Sincerely,

Ryan Kim
AAJA San Francisco
